

No Shame, No Blame

Bodies learn in their own time, and accidents are not anyone's fault.

1 What can be true?

My body
is learning.

Accidents can happen.

I am not bad.

I can get help.

2 What does not help?

Blaming

Teasing

Harsh words

Hiding alone

3 What helps instead?

Kind words

Clean up calmly

Ask a grown-up

Take one next step

4 My kind reminder

Write or draw one kind thing you want to remember.

5 My brave reminders

I am learning.

My body
deserves care.

I can be kind to myself.

I can learn without shame. I can get support.

5.3.2

The Body Learns Slowly

Bodies can learn step by step, and learning takes time.

1 What can learning look like?

Small steps

Practice

Patience

Help from grown-ups

2 Things my body may be learning

Noticing signals

Using the toilet

Waking to go

Trying again

3 What helps while learning?

A calm routine

Kind words

Clean clothes nearby

A grown-up plan

4 My learning steps

Write or draw one small step you are practicing.

5 My brave reminders

Learning takes time.

I can practice.

I am growing.

My body can learn one step at a time.

My Calm Evening Routine

A calm evening can help my body get ready for sleep.

1 My evening steps

Use the toilet

Put on pajamas

Brush teeth

Cozy bedtime

2 What helps me feel calm?

A warm bath

A quiet story

Soft breathing

A dim light

3 Who helps with my routine?

Parent

Caregiver

Teacher for next day plan

Me trying my best

4 My bedtime plan

Write or draw your calm evening routine.

5 My gentle reminders

Slow is okay.

I can follow
my routine.

Bedtime can feel calmer.

A calm routine helps my body feel safe.

Signs from My Body

My body gives me clues, and I can notice them kindly.

1 What signs might I notice?

A full feeling

A tummy feeling

Wiggly body

A signal to go

2 What can help when I notice a sign?

Pause and listen

Go to the toilet

Tell a grown-up

Take a calm breath

3 What helps me notice sooner?

A routine

A timer

A reminder from a grown-up

My body chart

4 My body clues today

Write or draw the body clues you notice.

5 My kind reminders

My body is talking to me.

I can listen kindly.

I can get help.

My body gives me clues, and I can care for them.

Asking for Help

Asking for help is brave, and I do not have to handle everything alone.

1 Who can help me?

Parent

Caregiver

Teacher

Therapist or nurse

2 What can I say?

I need help.

Can you come with me?

I need the toilet.

I had an accident.

3 What helps after I ask?

A calm voice

Clean up support

Fresh clothes

A kind plan

4 My help sentence

Write a sentence you can use when you need help.

5 My brave reminders

It is brave to ask.

Help is near.

I am not alone.

I can ask for help. I can get support.

My Calm Toilet Plan

A calm plan can help me know what to do next.

1 My calm steps

Notice
the signal

Walk to the toilet

Try and breathe

Wash hands after

2 What helps my plan?

A picture routine

A timer

A grown-up nearby

A calm reminder

3 What can I do if it feels hard?

Take one breath

Ask for support

Try again
later

Follow my next step

4 My toilet plan

Write or draw your calm plan.

1

2

3

5 My helpful reminders

I know my steps.

I can stay calm.

I can keep learning.

One calm step can help my body.

5.3.7

When an Accident Happens

Accidents can happen, and I can take calm, kind steps.

1 What can I remember? It is not my faultI am still okayI can get helpI can clean up calmly2 My next calm steps Tell a grown-upGet fresh clothesClean up calmlyTake one breath3 What helps after?

Kind words

A hug or comfortBack to my dayA gentle plan
for next time4 My calm-after plan

Write or draw what helps you after an accident.

5 My brave reminders Accidents can happen.I deserve kindness.I can try again.

I can stay kind to myself after a hard moment.

A Kind Sentence for Myself

 Kind words can help me feel safer and stronger.

I can choose kind words for myself.

1 Kind sentence ideas

I am learning.

My body needs care.

I can try again.

I am not alone.

2 Which words help me most?

Gentle

Brave

Calm

Hopeful

3 When can I use my sentence?

Before bed

After a hard moment

When I worry

When I ask for help

4 My own kind sentence

Write the kind sentence you want to practice.

5 My reminder cards

I can speak kindly to myself.

Kind words help me.

My voice can be gentle.

  I can use kind words with myself.

Support from a Parent

A calm grown-up can help me feel safe, cared for, and ready.

1 What can a parent do?

Stay calm

Use kind words

Help with clean clothes

Follow the plan

2 What helps me feel supported?

A hug

A reminder

Walking with me

Helping me reset

3 What can we do together?

Make a routine

Practice calm steps

Notice body signals

Celebrate small progress

4 My support plan

Write or draw what support helps you most.

5 My family reminders

We are a team.

Grown-ups can help.

Small progress matters.

Support and kindness help me grow.

5.3.10

My 'I Am Learning' Card

♥ I can carry kind learning reminders with me.

1 What helps me remember? ♥

2 My helpful sentence ideas ☁

3 My go-to learning sentence ♥

4 What helps me use my card? ★

5 My 'I Am Learning' Card ♥

✂ Cut it out, fold it, and keep it with you.

I am learning.

I can ask for help.

I can take one calm step.

My body deserves care.

My learning card can travel with me.

