

A More Balanced Thought

A balanced thought does not ignore the difficulty — it helps me see the full picture in a broader and more helpful way.

2. What is important to remember?

Let's check what else is true right now.

There are other facts too

One mistake does not define me

I don't know everything

It's possible to learn from this

There have been moments when I succeeded

1. What was the first thought?

Which thought popped up for me?

I'm not good enough

This will end badly

They are thinking something bad about me

I'm not successful

Other

My thought: _____

3. What does this look like in an example?

Let's look at two examples of a balanced thought.

Maybe there are several reasons why this happened

Right now it feels hard, but that does not mean I can't succeed

4. Which balanced thought fits me?

Choose and/or write a sentence that helps me see the situation in a broader way.

It's possible to check more

I can cope

It's hard, but not hopeless

Not everything depends on one moment

My balanced thought: _____

5. How do I feel with the new thought?

Mark how I feel when I think this way.

More calm

☐

Less pressure

☐

More hope

☐

It is easier for me to act

☐

How much does this help me?

Thought Reminder

A balanced thought does not erase the difficulty — it helps me see the full picture and choose a better next step.

