

What Do I Choose to Think Now?

After I checked the thought,
I can choose a thought that helps me
more and scares me less.

2. What helped me check it?

From the previous forms,
what still helps me?

Evidence for and against

Another way to see it

What I would say to a friend

A balanced thought

1. What happened and what did I think first?

Let's connect the situation and the first thought.

At school ☐

In my body ☐

Online / phone ☐

At home ☐

With friends ☐

Other ☐

My first thought: _____

3. The new thought I choose

Let's write a thought that helps me more now.

Example

This is hard,
but I can cope

My new thought: _____

4. What is the next small step?

What will help me continue from here?

Breathe

Write

Talk with someone

Check again

Return to the task

Ask for help

My step: _____

5. What do I want to remember?

Let's choose a short personal reminder.

A thought is not a fact

I'm allowed to pause and check

I do not have to be perfect

I can choose again

My reminder: _____

Thought Reminder

After I check a thought,
I have more freedom to choose
what I want to take with me.
This gives me more stability and choice.