

Thought, Feeling, Action

A thought affects how we feel, which influences what we do—and each one can impact the next. Let's learn how to work with this connection.

2. What Am I Thinking?

Look at a thought that came up for you.
Which of these does it sound like?

I'm not capable

Nobody understands me

It's too hard

I'll never be good enough

How intense was this thought?

1. What Happened?

Think of something that happened.
What was the situation?

Studying / School ☐

With Friend / Peers ☐

Friend / Relationship ☐

At Home ☐

Family ☐

Something Else ☐

In a few words:

EXAMPLES:

Thought:
It's too hard

Feeling:
Anxious

The main feeling: _____

Another feeling I had: _____

3. What Am I Feeling?

Name the feelings that came up for you.

5. What Can I Do Instead?

What can I do to respond in a helpful way?

Talk to someone I trust

Exercise or move

Take a break

Choose a helpful thought

Be kind to myself

Write down how I'm feeling

My plan for next time:

4. What Action Did I Take?

Think about what you actually did.

Avoided ☐

Relaxed ☐

Got support ☐

Left ☐

Stayed and faced it ☐

Did something else ☐

Was this action helpful?

Quick Reflection

Thoughts, feelings and actions influence each other.
When I understand the connection,
I can choose how to respond.
I don't have to react automatically —
I can choose what helps me.