

Which Interpretation Did I Give It?

One event can have a few possible interpretations. Let's see whether there may be more than one way to understand what happened.

2. My first interpretation

Which interpretation came up first for me?

He / she is against me

I did something wrong

They don't want me

I'm going to get hurt

I'm about to disappoint

Other

The interpretation that came up for me: _____

1. What did I see or hear?

Mark what describes the situation.

Someone said something ☐

A message ☐

Something at home ☐

A notification ☐

A look / reaction ☐

Other ☐

What happened in short: _____

Example

Maybe they were busy

Maybe they didn't notice my tone

3. More possible interpretations

What other ways might there be to understand what happened?

Option 1: _____

Option 2: _____

Option 3: _____

4. How did I feel with this interpretation?

Mark the feelings that woke up in me.

I felt rejected ☐

I got angry ☐

I got hurt ☐

I got sad ☐

I became confused ☐

I felt offended ☐

How strong was this feeling?

5. What would I say to a friend?

What could help a friend look at the situation in a broader and kinder way?

Check another possibility

Pause for a moment

Talk gently

Don't rush to conclude

Remember that not everyone knows everything

The sentence I would say to a friend: _____

Thought Reminder

The first interpretation that comes up is not always the only one.

When I check more possibilities, I can respond with more space and calm.